Gender
Please tell me which statement you most agree with even if neither is exactly right.

Some people say that gender is fluid and being a woman is a state of mind or something that you feel inside you and has very little to do with biology.

Other people say that there are two genders, men and women, and that a woman is most often defined as someone with two X chromosomes and born with the female anatomy.
Please tell me which statement you most agree with even if neither is exactly right.

Our country needs leaders with courage who are focused on fixing society, not tearing it apart.

Conversations are the first step to solutions. Rather than shutting down dialogue with name-calling and labeling, we must build each other up and learn from each other. The failure to learn from others is a function of a sick society.

Children should never be taught that their destiny and inherent value depends on their skin color. Instead, American schools should be teaching American children about the American dream that is available to them.

Illiberalism on the far left and the far right is dividing our society. To solve our most pressing issues, we must focus on bridging divides, not deepening them.

The United States should reaffirm our commitment to classical liberal values like free speech and expression, then we can all build a better country for our children.

The messages Americans hear from elite institutions—from the media to academia to activist groups—is not aligned with the mainstream position on most political issues.

When free and open societies break down, antisemitism flourishes.

Do you agree or disagree with the following statement?

America is a structurally racist country in which white Americans, and white-adjacent groups who emulate white culture (like Asian Americans and Jewish Americans), have unfair advantages over minorities which must be addressed to achieve equity.
